Stevenson Star Attraction at Dinner Tonight

Kefauver, Harriman And Truman Also to Address Democrats

CHICAGO (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson makes his first speech as a candidate for the presidency to night before 2,500 of the nation's top Democrats.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York—the men most likely to give Stevenson a fight for the presidential nomination—will also address the $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner at the International Amphitheater.

Former President Truman was another speaker. But Stevenson, the first avowed presidential candidate in either party, was the star attraction.

His aides predicted his speech would set the tone of his campaign and prove to the top brass of his party that he is a fighting candidate.

Stevenson will probably repeat attacks he has already made on the Eisenhower administration, including charges of bluff and indecision in foreign policy and inability to stop falling farm prices at home.

Tone to be Sharper

However, his aides said, the tone of the 1952 candidate's attack will be far sharper now that he is off and running for the White House again.

The big meeting tonight is the climax of a four-day pow-wow of top Democratic leaders.

Stevenson grabbed the spotlight even before the meetings began by announcing his candidacy Tuesday. Talk of his campaign plans and of his possible strength as a candidate dominated the subsequent meetings of the Democratic National committee.

Kefauver and Harriman got into the act when they arrived late Friday, with the Tennessee promptly charging that the national committee has "tried to help" Stevenson.

The alleged assistance occurred "sometime in the summertime," when the national committee sent telegrams signed by Stevenson and urging party leaders to work hard, Kefauver charged.

Kefauver Doubts Propriety

"I'm not complaining about it, I just don't think it's proper," he said. "I don't think the committee should plug for one particular person."

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler hurried to Kefauver and told him to his face that nothing of the sort had happened since he took over the chairmanship last January.

Kefauver replied that the incidents happened while Butler's predecessor, the pro-Stevenson Stephen A. Mitchell, held the post. He did not explain why he referred to "the summertime," when Butler was in office.

Kefauver also announced he would reveal his plans Dec. 16 or 17 and if he decides to become a candidate, would be interested in squaring off against Stevenson in the March 20 Minnesota primary.

Harriman held his fire until a news conference scheduled for Sunday. But he told reporters that reports that he would either announce as a presidential candidate or throw his support to Stevenson at the Chicago meeting is the "most fanciful speculation."

Death Takes Mrs. Gwen Parkinson, 45, At Home of Sister

Mrs. Gwen Parkinson, 45, former resident of Galatia and the Raleigh area, died early this morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Pauline Thomas, 27 West Midkiff street in Harrisburg.

The body was taken to the Courtney funeral home in Galatia and funeral plans are pending.

Surviving are the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Pauline Thomas, Harrisburg, Blake Hale and Mrs. Marie Jones, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Vida Cunningham, Clawson, Ill., a half sister, Mrs. Imogene Chorn, Marine City, Mich., two half brothers, Larry and Bobby Hale, Galatia, and her stepmother, Mrs. Chloe Hale of Galatia.

Files Appeal from Police Magistrate

Marie Mayberry has filed in circuit court an appeal from a Harrisburg police magistrate court decision finding her guilty of illegal sale of alcohol. She was found guilty of the charge by Police Magistrate Vern Joyner after police had made an arrest charging liquor sales at the Mayberry home in the 800 block of East Poplar street. Her fine was $100 and costs.

State Police Stage Gambling Raid at Belleville

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—State police announced a raid on an alleged handbook and gambling establishment in Belleville Friday afternoon.

Lt. Elza Brantley, acting battalion commander, and Lt. Walter Sauerwein, district commander, led two officers and a local constable, armed with a search warrant, in a raid on the Derby Inn.

The officers seized a poker table, dice stick, blackjack table, crap table cover, betting tabs and turf forms. They also confiscated $190 in cash.

They arrested Robert Earl Sheer as operator of the establishment and said gaming charges would be filed against him. Five other persons in the place were not arrested.

Wickard Blasts Administration Farm Program

CHICAGO (UP)—Former Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has called the Eisenhower administration farm program "calculus" and no more help than throwing a drowning man a straw.

Wickard, agriculture secretary under former President Roosevelt, spoke for a special farm advisory committee Friday which met here in connection with a Democratic conference.

Wickard blasted a six-point program that was announced by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson after he conferred with President Eisenhower recently. The program included the government pork buying program, an increase in exports, a proposed "soil bank" plan and other measures.

Wickard said the pork buying plan was delayed until prices fell "below disaster levels," and when finally announced "it was of questionable value to farmers."

He said exports should have been stepped up long ago, and that the administration long had sought to "eliminate" soil programs rather than use them.

He said Benson's program would not help a "three-year agricultural depression," and the plan "reveals the same amazing callousness to the plight of agriculture the administration has consistently shown in its disregard of agricultural campaign pledges."

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the Democratic advisory committee that it would be "dangerous" to promise farmers high government price supports for farm products.

Shuman said that because of the 7½-billion-dollar government stockpile of surplus commodities, a return to rigid 90 per cent of parity price supports on basic farm crops would be a "very dangerous step."

He told the Democrats "it would be political suicide to try to go into office with a promise of 90 per cent of parity for farmers."

"These are economic problems, and there are no political solutions to them. Prices are not made in Washington but in the market place," he said.

Humphrey Offers Five-Point Farm Program

CLEVELAND (UP)—Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey today outlined a five-point program for solving the farm surplus problem.

The program, Humphrey explained, depends greatly on "prosperity for industry," because "its workers are his (the farmer's) customers."

The plan, which Humphrey called "the middle way" in a speech prepared for delivery before the 89th annual session of the National Grange, included:

1. Flexible price supports which "do not try futilely to repeal" the laws of supply and demand.
2. "Carefully planned restrictions of production."
3. Expanded research to find new crops and new uses for farm output.
4. Cautious selling of farm surpluses here and abroad, coupled with "strenuous efforts" to increase consumption everywhere.
5. "A dynamic program of soil conservation."

Humphrey said the growing population "with three million more mouths to feed each year will eat into both limited current production and surplus at an amazing rate."

President Spends Quiet Day Resting, Visiting with Gen. Gruenther, Allen

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—President Eisenhower, resting from his hardest work week since his Sept. 24 heart attack, spent a quiet Saturday today in the company of congenial friends.

Many of his neighbors marked the day—the 92nd anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg address—by going to the nearby Civil War battlefield to hear Lincoln's address repeated from the very spot where he delivered it.

Hardly two miles away, on the fringe of the historic battlefield,

OIL REPORT:

Two Producers, Two Dry Holes During Week

Taken from the Robertson Tri-State Oil Report

Two producers and two dry holes comprise the Saline county completions for the period ending Nov. 16.

John Stelle Associates made a producer out of its J. H. Butler Comunitized No. 3, SE 1/4 NW 20-38-7c (Eldorado) with initial production of 284 barrels per day flow from the Tar Springs at 2187-2208.

Breuer-Robison brought in a producer at its G. M. Roberson Heirs No. 1, NE 1/4 SE 16-88-7c, with initial production 68 barrels per day on pump from the Waltersburg at 2149-60.

Dry and abandoned were Breuer-Robison's Fulkerson No. 1, SW 1/4 NE 30-88-7c, which was a dry hole drilled last spring by another producer and re-opened by Breuer-Robison, and Ashland's Lloyd Barton No. 1, SE 1/4 NW 19-88-7c.

Other activity:

E. E. Goad's Frank P. Parker No. 2, 315 feet north and 360 feet west of SE 1/4 SW 15-98-6c (Harrisburg) was breaking a gas lock which was preventing the flow of oil with the results of testing the Cypress reported probably to be known Monday.

Goad's Parker No. 3, NW 1/4 NE NW 22-98-6c, awaited cable tools to test the Aux Vases.

Sunray Mid-Continent's Sisk Raley Unit No. 1, NW 1/4 NE 15-108-6c (Independence) was drilling below 2,000 feet.

Calvert was running an electric log at its Unsell-Small No. 1, NE 1/4 NW 48-5c (Brushy).

Sun Oil Co. was drilling below 3,000 feet at its Justin Reynolds No. 1, SE 1/4 SE NE 26-88-5c (Brushy).

List of Margaret's Boy Friends Dwindles

LONDON (UP)—Another in Princess Margaret's rapidly dwindling group of eligible boy friends announced today he is going to marry someone else.

Lord Porchester, known to the princess and her friends as "Porchy," announced his engagement to an English girl living in the United States.

She is Miss Jean Wallop of Big Horn, Wyo. They are to be married next year in New York, according to the announcement.

Earlier, Mr. Eisenhower was brought up to date on atomic developments by chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission and put polishing touches on the report Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made to the nation Friday night on the recently completed Geneva conference.

Highlight of Week

Two days of conferences with Dulles were the highlights of the President's work week. It was a week in which Mr. Eisenhower returned for the first time to his desk—transferred to a tiny office in the Gettysburg post office—to conduct government business.

It was also a week in which the President had ample opportunity to look over his farm and the many improvements that have been added since he last was here in August.

Gerald Arvel Parks Dies at Eldorado

Gerald Arvel Parks, nine years old, known to his friends as Jerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvel Parks, 1133 State street in Eldorado, died at his home Thursday at 6 p. m. He had been ill for a number of months with a liver ailment.

Besides his parents he is survived by a brother, Michael Ray, and a sister, Brenda Jean, both at home and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordie Whiteside of Creve Coeur, Ill., and Mrs. Luella Parks of Muddy.

The body lies in state at the Martin funeral home in Eldorado. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. at the First Baptist church in Eldorado. A. B. Plunkett will officiate and burial will be in Lindale Memorial Gardens.

Two Killed Near Marion

MARION, Ill. (UP)—A college student and a high school senior were killed early today when a car they were in failed to make a curve in Williamson county.

The victims were 17-year-old Werner Knight of Carbondale and 23-year-old Robert E. Stephenson of Alton. Sheriff Carl Miller said they were the occupants of the car which was borrowed from D. L. Thurn of Alton.

Miller said the car went off Ill. 13 seven miles east of Marion. The car overturned and both victims were thrown out.

Tear Down Own News Barriers Congress Told

Capital Reporter Says Members Set Pace for Agencies

WASHINGTON (UP)—Capital correspondent Pat Munroe told Congress today it should tear down its own news barriers before assailing secrecy in the government's executive agencies.

"I submit that members of Congress should clean up their own mess first," said Munroe, correspondent for a number of newspapers and chairman of a self-governing committee of newsmen accredited to the congressional press galleries.

Munroe filed his statement for inclusion in the printed record of recent hearings by a House subcommittee investigating complaints that government agencies sometimes bottle up news.

William K. Hutchinson, chief of the Washington Bureau of the International News Service, told the subcommittee INS recommends establishment of an impartial council to set standards for official restrictions on government news.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), has taken the position it has no jurisdiction to investigate news restrictions by Congress. It was set up specifically to investigate information policies of the executive agencies.

Correction Before Criticism

Munroe, filing with the subcommittee a statement prepared for delivery earlier before a journalism group at the University of North Carolina, maintained however that Congress sets the pace for the executive agencies.

"If Congress corrects its own failings in this field of news, then it will be in a position to criticize the bureaucracy who may want to cover up," Munroe asserted.

As an example of the congressional cover-up Munroe cited secretary John Foster Dulles in a nationwide radio-TV report on the Geneva meeting.

Dulles blamed Russia point-blank for the fact that "no positive results were achieved" at Geneva. He said this lack of achievement means that the "cold war in the sense of peaceful competition between East and West will inevitably go on."

Dulles said Mr. Eisenhower fully endorsed his evaluation of the Geneva talks. The President, meeting with Dulles in Gettysburg Friday, went over the secretary's speech in advance word by word, making some penciled changes.

Two Boys Admit Vandalism at WEBQ

Dulles said that as he left the President, Mr. Eisenhower turned to him and said: "I know that no setback, no obstacle to progress will ever deter this government and our people from the great effort to establish a just and durable peace."

"Success may be long in coming, but there is no temporal force so capable of helping achieve it as the strength, the might, the spirit of 165 million free Americans."

"In striving toward this shining goal, this country will never admit defeat."

Dulles detailed his three-week battle at Geneva to get Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov "to negotiate seriously" and make good on previous Soviet promises to work for real peace. He said this effort had failed. But he did not see this as a step toward general war.

Unwillingness To Pay

The main trouble at Geneva, as Dulles saw it, was Russia's "unwillingness to pay the price" for peace. He said the Red leaders were tough because the "spirit of Geneva" set last July by the Big Four "Summit" meeting had threatened serious repercussions in their satellite camp.

Two American Priests Held in Solitary Confinement Two Years, Freed by Reds

HONG KONG (UP)—Two American priests charged with spying and held in solitary confinement for two years by the Chinese Communists were set free today.

The Rev. Marcellus White of Waltham, Mass., broke under the strain of his long confinement and went for joy as he and the Rev. Martin Vincent Garvey of Union City, N. J., crossed the border to freedom.

Release of the two Roman Catholic priests of the Passionist Order brought to 22 the number of Americans freed from Red China since talks between U. S. and Communist Chinese envoys started at Geneva last Aug. 1. At least 15 others still are held.

Both described their "trials" last Oct. 29 as a "mockery" of justice.

Garvey said the Reds charged him with resisting the revolution, cooperating with the Nationalists and spying, and threatened to execute him if he did not confess.

White said he was accused of passing economic and military information to other priests.

The Reds also had promised to release Mrs. Homer V. Bradshaw of New York, wife of a Presbyterian missionary also in Red China, but she did not appear at the border today.

The two priests said they did not see her on the train that brought them from Canton to the border. Mrs. Laura Lau, American wife of a Chinese missionary who was freed last week, said Mrs. Bradshaw was very ill and "barely alive" when she left.

White and Garvey appeared in reasonably good health although thin and pale from their long imprisonment. They were greeted at the border by U. S. Vice Consul Robert Aylward, Father Anthony Moloney and British officials.

President's Answer To Geneva Failureelayed by Dulles

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower assured the world Friday night that "no setback, no obstacle" will deter the United States from striving for the "shining goal of peace."

This was the President's answer to the failure of the Geneva foreign ministers conference to settle outstanding differences between the West and Russia.

Mr. Eisenhower's message was relayed to the American people and to the world by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in a nationwide radio-TV report on the Geneva meeting.

Dulles blamed Russia point-blank for the fact that "no positive results were achieved" at Geneva. He said this lack of achievement means that the "cold war in the sense of peaceful competition between East and West will inevitably go on."

Dulles said Mr. Eisenhower fully endorsed his evaluation of the Geneva talks. The President, meeting with Dulles in Gettysburg Friday, went over the secretary's speech in advance word by word, making some penciled changes.

Roberson Case Is Settled

The circuit court case in which Ben H. Roberson and wife, Shelly, charged an error in a deed has been settled, it was learned here today.

Defendants in the case were Guy M. Roberson and wife, Susie, and their two daughters; the Breuer-Robinson Oil Co. and the Sohio Pipeline Co.

The complaint charged that an error was made in a deed transferring property several years ago. The property was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Roberson, who leased the mineral rights to Breuer-Robinson.

Atty. Scerial Thompson represented the plaintiffs. Atty. L. M. Hancock the defendants.

Fifth Grader Leaves Cigar in Pocket, Starts School Fire

BEDFORD, Ind. (UP)—An 11-year-old fifth grade student confessed Friday that he was to blame for starting a fire in the school library and cloakroom.

He said he had absent-mindedly left his burning cigar in his pocket when he hung his jacket in the cloakroom.

Caliph of Fez Killed in Fight in Morocco Palace

RABAT, Morocco (UP)—The caliph of Fez, a follower of the ousted sultan of Morocco, was killed in a palace brawl today when he came to make peace with the new sultan, Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef.

The caliph, deputy to the powerful pasha of Fez, was stabbed to death inside the imperial palace during a brawl among followers of Ben Youssef and his predecessor, Sidi Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa.

First reports had said two other persons were killed in the fight. It was later announced the two were severely injured but survived.

The stabbing occurred as the Caliph Baghdad was awaiting an audience with Ben Youssef, who had returned from two years of French-imposed exile only three days ago.

A group of Ben Youssef supporters, also waiting to see the sultan, recognized the caliph. Somebody muttered an insult and a murderous free-for-all battle started.

The caliph, survivor of several assassination attempts, drew his ornamental dagger and his vest-pocket pistol, but it was too late. He slumped bleeding to the floor, fatally stabbed in the back.

The entire incident was among Moroccans. No French guards or soldiers were around at the time.

Commercial Limestone Includes Fine Dust

A good grade of limestone will include fine dust for immediate effects and larger sizes for long-term benefits, according to C. M.
Linsley, extension soils specialist at the University of Illinois.

The standard grade used in soil recommendations is 8-mesh. About 90 percent or more of the material in this grade will pass through a screen that has eight openings to a linear inch.

At least 25 percent of the material will pass through a 48-mesh screen, Linsley says. About 15 percent will be 100-mesh, which is a very fine dust.

Three tons of 8-mesh limestone will contain about 1500 pounds of 48-mesh dust and 900 pounds of 100-mesh. There will also be 4-500 pounds of coarser material that will help immediately to correct soil acidity but that will also contribute to counteract acidity for 8 to 10 years.

While it would not take so much 48-mesh limestone to correct a certain amount of acidity the first year, the 8-mesh—including all degrees of fineness—is cheaper and doesn't need to be applied so often, Linsley points out.

By Albert Meyer

Pros and cons on corn of high oil or protein content came up for discussion in a recent Corn Field Day at Southern Illinois university. Earl Leng, University of Illinois plant breeder working with corn, briefed the visitors on some of the more recent findings regarding these kinds of corn.

The impression a listener gets from such a discussion is that there always are new things to learn, and that a man of science always is able to point to unfilled gaps in knowledge needing answers before he feels satisfied. Leng particularly brought this idea out in regard to the comparative new attentions to breeding corn varieties that will contain a high percentage of oil or protein.

Such corn varieties have been developed but there still are a lot of "ifs" connected with them, according to Leng. These limitations are important for the grower and the plant breeder.

Take high protein content corn, for example. Two big "ifs" were pointed out. One is that the high protein corn doesn't yield nearly as well as the better regular hybrids. The question facing the corn grower is whether or not he wants to take a yield penalty in order to have more protein in the corn. As yet there has been no price premium offered to compensate for the reduced yield. It was pointed out that adding nitrogen to the soil also will raise corn protein content somewhat.

One other high protein corn problem was mentioned. Although the content has been raised to as much as 19 to 21 percent after 55 generations (years) of selection in plant breeding at the University of Illinois, there today is a question as to how much of the protein is of a farm readily usable for hogs. Until there is certainty that more of this protein is in a usable form to hogs, what inducement is there for paying a premium for the corn as hog feed? It has been found that highly special feed supplements are needed with high protein corn as hog feed.

Now, let's look at the high oil corn problems. Leng says the big difficulty experienced so far in work with which he is familiar is that the stalk quality of the high yielders is poor and the corn falls down badly. However, this problem certainly will not be insurmountable very long there is a demand for such corn.

One question immediately comes up. If the high oil corn is used for feeding hogs, will it produce "soft pork"? Animal nutritionists are working on the question. This particular problem (as well as the protein problem) does not seem to apply greatly in feeding beef cattle.

Of course, corn oil processors are interested in having high oil corn.

A significant feature of high oil corn is that the kernel has a large germ. This germ has a slightly greater amount of high quality protein than does regular corn.

Sericea Lespedeza Shows Promise for Southern Illinois

DIXON SPRINGS — Sericea lespedeza has been showing much promise as a substitute for alfalfa in southern Illinois.

G. E. McKibben, crops specialist at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station of the University of Illinois, says some of the best stands of sericea have grown on slopes where erosion had taken the top 3 to 6 inches of soil.

One disadvantage of sericea is that it makes little or no growth the year it is established. After that, however, you can take a hay and a seed crop or two hay crops every year, McKibben says.

In growing sericea, apply lime, phosphate and potash to the soil the same as you would for any other pasture crop. Station researchers got good stands of sericea from sowing 35 pounds of inoculated, scarified seed per acre on a good

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Round-Up
Last week there was peace on the pastures. Cows and calves grazed undisturbed with characteristic bovine contentment. But in the realm of man, records, check sheets, vials, syringes and vaccines were being assembled. This week the quiet is broken by the pounding of hooves, the "hi-yah-hi-yah" of drivers, the bawling of calves and the frantic, noisy milling of cows searching for calves that had suckled only the day before.

Such an abrupt change can mean only one thing. It is round-up time—the second week in November—when every year the yield, quality and health of the Station herd is appraised. The system has become routine after years of round-ups. It swung into action six to seven months ago, when all calves at birth were ear-tattooed with a number. The sex, birth weight, dam and sire of each calf was recorded. That is where the round-up really begins. Without this record, the round-up underway this week would have little meaning. Appraisal of cows and bulls would be impossible and herd improvement only accidental.

Number All Animals
To follow the round-up procedure, let us start with a heifer calf, tattooed number 3145, dropped on pasture March 15 by cow number 1540. This little heifer had nothing to do but nurse, graze, romp and grow on verdant, rolling pastures until November 7. On that date she was 237 days old.
That day, except for being a little colder and a little frostier, promised to be the same as the days before, when suddenly horsemen rode down upon the herd and shoved the little heifer and her near and distant relatives along to the barns and corral. Here was a strange place, barren of grass and made more frightening by men who sepa-

She Gets the Works
Heifer 3145 was pushed onto a scale and her weight recorded—450 pounds. Not bad; she had made her mother look good. From the scale she was driven into a frightening, high, narrow chute.

plenty of moisture.

Yields of sericea have run from one to four tons a season if the crop is cut when 12 to 14 inches high. Seed yields vary from 200 to 500 pounds an acre. Protein runs about 13.2 per cent compared with 15.3 for alfalfa hay cut at 1/10 to 1/2 bloom.

Sericea has the advantage of curing faster than any of the other legumes harvested for hay in the spring. Usually you can cut it one morning, rake it in the afternoon and bale it the next morning.

proved to be as high yielding as the varieties commonly seen grow-been as palatable for livestock. In addition, it is relatively free from insect pests and disease.

Daughters of Breeding Ass'n Bulls Above Average

Daughters of Illinois cooperative breeding association bulls are producing well above the average of other good cows. J. G. Cash, extension dairyman at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, reports an average production of 448 pounds of butterfat for the daughters of bulls used by the two Illinois associations.

This average was figured on the 17,257 records reported since 1943 on daughters of cooperative breeding association sires, Cash says.
The average production was figured on a 305-day twice-a-day milking mature equivalent basis.

The 13-year average of 448 pounds compares with an average of 420 pounds for all sires proved in Illinois in 1948 and an estimated average of 414 pounds, figured on the same basis, for all dairy herd improvement association cows.

Keep the Good Cows

Cow number 1540, the mother of little heifer 3145, had yet to be checked. Her worries were not too great. Her calf 3145 and calves of previous years had established her as a good producer. But to avoid slaughter she must pass the health check and the pregnancy examination. She is seven years old and a decline in production can be expected each year. But she will probably stay in the herd three more years until she reaches the age of 10 years.

Yearling cattle and bulls must all pass through the round-up. By the end of the week, about 800 head of cattle will have been closely inspected. To stay in the herd all must meet the standard of good health and acceptable production.

First Baptist W.M.U.
Has Royal Service Program
The W.M.U. of the First Baptist church met at the church Thursday afternoon for the regular Royal Service program. Mrs. Frances Davis, president, opened the meeting and presided during the business session.

Mrs. Betty Heatherly led in prayer, especially remembering the shut-ins and foreign missions. Mrs. Davis urged that all the members who could come to the church Friday afternoon or work at home on curtains for the mission in Harrisburg.

It was announced again that a missionary book would be taught at the church Monday night to all members of the W.M.U.

Mrs. Florence Slightom led in singing the hymn "Christ for the World" with scriptures John 3:16 and Matt. 28:19-20 being quoted in unison. Mrs. Slightom sang "Jesus Shall Reign."

Mrs. Myrtle Wilson, program chairman for the Aletha Fuller circle, conducted an impressive lesson, "Christ for the World," asking each person to take an imaginary visit to the foreign missionary board.

Impersonating lesson characters were the following: Mrs. Pearl Cole who acted as Mrs. Howard Jenkins; Mrs. Virginia Howe; Mrs. Dalleria Green; Mrs. Lola Wickham; Mrs. Charles E. Maddry; Mrs. Myrtle Wilson who impersonated Edna Frances Dawkins; Mrs. Fon H. Scofield Jr.; lone Gray and Johnnie Johnson; Mrs. Loy Grounds; Mary Elizabeth Fugua and Baker J. Cauthen.

The appeal and closing prayer were made by Mrs. Pearl Cole.

New Argentine
Chief Guarantees
Freedom of Press
BUENOS AIRES (U)—An end to censorship with restoration to freedom of the press and public opinion has been guaranteed the people of Argentina by President Pedro E. Aramburu.

Aramburu moved Friday to destroy the propaganda machine created by ousted Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron during his 10 years of "iron rule."

Aramburu ordered the Secretariat for Press and Cultural Activities established by Peron in 1948, abolished. He named Adolfo Lanus, a former editorial writer for the newspaper La Prensa, to supervise the liquidation of the propaganda apparatus which maintained a stranglehold on the nation's press, radio and movies under Peron.

Aramburu, in his decree, declared that continued existence of the secretariat is incompatible with a democratic regime.

"Freedom of the press and access to the sources of information is an essential requisite in the life of the Argentine people as it is in the lives of all free peoples," Aramburu said.

Reject Proposal
For Red Leaders
To Witness H-Blast

WASHINGTON (U)—Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas E. Murray's proposal that Communist leaders be invited to witness the destructiveness of a U. S. H-bomb met with official disfavor today.

Congressional experts and the other four members of the Atomic Energy Commission disagreed with Murray's contention that such a demonstration might change Russia's belligerent attitude.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss and Murray's AEC colleagues said they formally rejected Murray's proposal "a number of months ago." They said in a strongly worded statement that "Mr. Murray's proposal is contrary to the best judgment of the Atomic Energy Commission. Murray is the only Democrat on the commission."

Murray, in a New York address Thursday night, proposed that thousands of Communist and free world leaders be invited to witness a U. S. nuclear bomb explosion to impress upon them the realization that such a demonstration would serve notice on the world that it must create effective atomic controls or be responsible for wiping out civilization.

Revival Continues
At Dorrisville
Baptist Church

The Dorrisville Baptist church continues its revival efforts throughout the coming week. There will be morning prayer services Monday through Wednesday of next week beginning at 9:30 a. m. The evening services begin at 7 p. m. Rev. R. C. Fuson, Casey, Ill., father of the pastor, Wm. B. Fuson, is the evangelist. An interesting note also is that the father of the evangelist is also a Baptist minister and only last week was a guest speaker at the convention of Illinois Baptists in Vandalia.

The singing is in charge of Pat Shelton, local song leader.

On Thursday of next week the Union Thanksgiving service will be held at the Dorrisville Baptist church beginning at 8:30 a. m. and lasting for one hour. The public is invited to attend this service also.

squad, clambering over Mt. Charleston's jagged rocks, got to within three miles of the downed air transport before bedding in for the night.

But the squad messaged back that icy winds and snow were holding it out and it would be another two days before it could reach the wreckage. Meanwhile, officials said there were no signs of life around the stricken plane.

The transport was on a routine flight from Burbank, Calif., to Groom Dry Lake in Nevada and carried Air Force personnel and civilian employees engaged in secret work with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Search Parties Out
Meanwhile, more search parties spread across snowy farmlands north of Newark and the rugged country around Mt. Holly Springs in a hunt for more possible air crash victims.

The missing jet pilot, whose identity was not revealed, was part of a flight of four planes on a cross-country practice mission from Grandview, Mo., to Lockbourne Air Force Base near Newark. Two of the planes apparently overshot the air field and crashed. Lt. Russell A. Thoburn of Colerian, Ohio, escaped, but the other pilot was believed to have gone down with his plane.

In Pennsylvania, Civil Defense spotters reported a large "ghost plane" which was apparently in distress 25 miles north of Gettysburg, where President Eisenhower is recovering from a heart attack. Witnesses said they saw a flare in the sky and an official said "it's tough up in those hills—if a plane did drop there it's possible nobody would have heard it."

The Texas smashup killed T. H. Parham, 51, a prominent Dallas real estate man, along with his 37-year-old wife and the pilot of the five-place Cessna 195, J. M. (Chick) Craig.

Inmate said they saw the plane explode, but investigators reported there was no indication of a blast, being probably caused by the crash, they said.

Illness Overcomes
Family; Father's Foot
Roasted on Heater

VIRIDEN, Ill. (U)—Doctors today tried to diagnose the illness which overcame a family and caused the father to lose consciousness to the extent that he did not know his foot was being roasted by a floor heater. The left foot of George Madier, 28, had to be amputated Friday as a result of the burns.

Madier, his wife, Patricia, and their 1-year-old daughter, Deborah, all became ill Thursday night. A doctor sent medicine to the home and all reported feeling better. But they became ill again. Madier lost consciousness and collapsed near the floor heater. He regained consciousness at 8 a. m. Friday and aroused his wife.

DOUBLE JOINTED—This calf can't stand by itself, because it has five legs. The "extra" leg of the animal, born on the Frank Veldheer farm near Holland, Mich., separates from the right hind leg about halfway down and appears to end in two hoofs. The calf also has a double hip joint. Veldheer says the calf seems to be perfectly healthy.

Commercial Limestone Includes Fine Dust

A good grade of limestone will include fine dust for immediate effects and larger sizes for long-term benefits, according to C. M. Linsley, extension soils specialist at the University of Illinois.

The standard grade used in soil recommendations is 8-mesh. About 90 percent or more of the material in this grade will pass through a screen that has eight openings to a linear inch.

At least 25 percent of the material will pass through a 48-mesh screen, Linsley says. About 15 percent will be 100-mesh, which is a very fine dust.

Three tons of 8-mesh limestone will contain about 1,500 pounds of 48-mesh dust and 900 pounds of 100-mesh. There will also be 4,500 pounds of coarser material that will help immediately to correct soil acidity but that will also continue to counteract acidity for 8 to 10 years.

While it would not take so much 48-mesh limestone to correct a certain amount of acidity the first year, the 8-mesh—including all degrees of fineness—is cheaper and doesn't need to be applied so often, Linsley points out.

By Albert Meyer

Pros and cons on corn of high oil or protein content came up for discussion in a recent Corn Field Day at Southern Illinois university. Earl Leng, University of Illinois plant breeder working with corn, briefed the visitors on some of the more recent findings regarding these kinds of corn.

The impression a listener gets from such a discussion is that there always are new things to learn, and that a man of science always is able to point to unfilled gaps in knowledge needing answers before he feels satisfied. Leng particularly brought this idea out in regard to the comparative new attentions to breeding corn varieties that will contain a high percentage of oil or protein.

Such corn varieties have been developed but there still are a lot of "ifs" connected with them, according to Leng. These limitations are important for the grower and the plant breeder.

Take high protein content corn, for example. Two big "ifs" were pointed out. One is that the high protein corn doesn't yield nearly as well as the better regular hybrids. The question facing the corn grower is whether or not he wants to take a yield penalty in order to have more protein in the corn. As yet there has been no price premium offered to compensate for the reduced yield. It was pointed out that adding nitrogen to the soil also will raise corn protein content somewhat.

One other high protein corn problem was mentioned. Although the content has been raised to as much as 19 to 21 percent after 55 generations (years) of selection in plant breeding at the University of Illinois, there today is a question as to how much of the protein is of a form readily usable for hogs. Until there is certainty that more of this protein is in a usable form to hogs, what inducement is there for paying a premium for the corn as hog feed? It has been found that highly special feed supplements are needed with high protein corn as hog feed.

Now, let's look at the high oil corn problems. Leng says the big difficulty experienced so far in work with which he is familiar is that the stalk quality of the high yielders is poor and the corn falls down badly. However, this problem certainly will not be insurmountable very long there is a demand for such corn.

One question immediately comes up. If the high oil corn is used for feeding hogs, will it produce "soft pork"? Animal nutritionists are working on the question. This particular problem (as well as the protein problem) does not seem to apply greatly in feeding beef cattle.

Of course, corn oil processors are interested in having high oil corn. A significant feature of high oil corn is that the kernel has a large germ. This germ has a slightly greater amount of high quality protein than does regular corn.

Sericea Lespedeza Shows Promise for Southern Illinois

DIXON SPRINGS — Sericea lespedeza has been showing much promise as a substitute for alfalfa in southern Illinois.

G. E. McKibben, crops specialist at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station of the University of Illinois, says some of the best stands of sericea have grown on slopes where erosion had taken the top 3 to 6 inches of soil.

One disadvantage of sericea is that it makes little or no growth the year it is established. After that, however, you can take a hay and a seed crop or two hay crops every year, McKibben says.

In growing sericea, apply lime, phosphate and potash to the soil the same as you would for any other pasture crop. Station researchers got good stands of sericea from sowing 35 pounds of inoculated, scarified seed per acre on a good

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Round-Up

Last week there was peace on the pastures. Cows and calves grazed undisturbed with characteristic bovine contentment. But in the realm of man, records, check sheets, vials, syringes and vaccines were being assembled. This week the quiet is broken by the pounding of hooves, the "hi-yah-hi-yah" of drivers, the bawl of calves and the frantic, noisy milling of cows searching for calves that had suckled only the day before.

Such an abrupt change can mean only one thing. It is round-up time—the second week in November—when every year the yield, quality and health of the Station herd is appraised. The system has become routine after years of round-ups. It swung into action six to seven months ago, when all calves at birth were ear-tattooed with a number. The sex, birth weight, dam and sire of each calf was recorded. That is where the round-up really begins. Without this record, the round-up under way this week would have little meaning. Appraisal of cows and bulls would be impossible and herd improvement only accidental.

Number All Animals

To follow the round-up procedure, let us start with a heifer calf, tattooed number 3145, dropped on pasture March 15 by cow number 1540. This little heifer had nothing to do but nurse, graze, romp and grow on verdant, rolling pastures until November 7. On that date she was 237 days old. That day, except for being a little colder and a little frostier, promised to be the same as the days before, when suddenly horsemen rode down upon the herd and shoved the little heifer and her near and distant relatives along to the barns and corral. Here was a strange place, barren of grass and made more frightening by men who separated her and the other calves from their mothers.

She Gets the Works

Heifer 3145 was pushed onto a scale and her weight recorded—450 pounds. Not bad; she had made her mother look good. From the scale she was driven into a frightening, high, narrow chute.

The new large-animal clinic building at the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine is designed to accommodate 50 large-animal patients to be used for teaching veterinary students.

Soybean oil meal now makes up about half of all the high-protein livestock feeds.

seedbed that had been well cultivated. Planting from May through July is best if the soil contains plenty of moisture.

Yields of sericea hay run from one to four tons a season if the crop is cut when 12 to 14 inches high. Seed yields vary from 200 to 500 pounds an acre. Protein runs about 13.2 per cent compared with 15.3 for alfalfa hay cut at 1/10 to 1/2 bloom.

Sericea has the advantage of curing faster than any of the other legumes harvested for hay in the spring. Usually you can cut it one morning, rake it in the afternoon and bale it the next morning.

Of the varieties tested at Dixon Springs, Arlington strain, selected for its low tannic acid content, has proved to be as high yielding as the varieties commonly seen growing along the roadside. It has also been as palatable for livestock. In addition, it is relatively free from insect pests and disease.

Never before had she been so closely confined. Straight ahead at the end of the chute was a small opening and the promise of freedom. She bolted, intending to escape through this hole with one great leap. The hole closed. She was caught in a head gear. Men swarmed in. One put a noser in her nostrils and pulled her head aside while another pierced her jugular vein with a needle to draw blood in a vial. The blood in this vial will be tested to determine whether she is free from brucellosis and leptospirosis.

In less time than it takes to tell, she was needed three more times, once to vaccinate against black leg, once to vaccinate for brucellosis protection, and once to test for tuberculosis. A fecal sample was taken in a check for internal parasites. She was spared the pain of dehorning because as a day-old calf her horns were stopped by a properly used caustic dehorner.

Now, tested and protected, 3145 was turned loose. As she scurried to join the other calves, she came under the critical scrutiny of a three-man grading crew. This crew graded her 5-5, 5 on condition and 5 on type. The graders use a scale running from 1 to 15. One is top fancy and 15 is cull. Her score 5-5 meant that she was middle choice in both condition and type. Little heifer 3145 had passed well. She would soon grow used to being weaned and eventually make a fine herd replacement.

Keep the Good Cows

Cow number 1540, the mother of little heifer 3145, had yet to be checked. Her worries were not too great. Her calf 3145 and calves of previous years had established her as a good producer. But to avoid slaughter she must pass the health check and the pregnancy examination. She is seven years old and a decline in production can be expected each year. But she will probably stay in the herd three more years until she reaches the age of 10 years.

Yearling cattle and bulls must all pass through the round-up. By the end of the week, about 800 head of cattle will have been closely inspected. To stay in the herd all must meet the standard of good health and acceptable production.

Daughters of Illinois cooperative breeding association bulls are producing well above the average of other good cows.

J. G. Cash, extension dairyman at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, reports an average production of 448 pounds of butterfat for the daughters of bulls used by the two Illinois associations.

This average was figured on the 17,257 records reported since 1943 on daughters of cooperative breeding association sires, Cash says. The average production was figured on a 305-day twice-a-day milking mature equivalent basis. The 12-year average of 448 pounds compares with an average of 420 pounds for all sires proved in Illinois in 1954 and an estimated average of 418 pounds, figured on the same basis, for all dairy herd improvement association cows.

FERTILIZER COMPOUND (PILLETED)
NITROGEN 45%
PHOSPHORUS 15%
POTASH 15%

After the apple harvest is a good time to feed the trees the nitrogen they need to make next year's crop profitable. Some growers tend to put the job off, but it's so easy and fast with ARCADIAN® UREA 45, that fall fertilization of orchards is gaining. UREA 45, applied in fall, penetrates to the root zone to feed roots well. Any that isn't absorbed now stays locked to soil particles ready to go to work early in spring.

Feed your trees the easy way with ARCADIAN UREA 45. It's the most concentrated dry nitrogen fertilizer available, with 36 pounds of actual nitrogen in every 80-pound bag. Save time, save work, get UREA 45 now and use it now!

Methodist W.S.C.S. Circles Hold Monthly Meeting with Hostesses

The Methodist circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service, met Wednesday afternoon with their respective hostesses for a continued lesson on "Methodist Doctrine" taken from the "Methodist Primer."

It was also announced at each meeting that the bazaar would be held Dec. 2.

The Martha circle met with Mrs. Dewey Williams with 18 members present. Mrs. Herman Schwartz gave the lesson and Mrs. Donald O'Neal the devotion.

The Dorcas division met at Wesley Center with 15 members present. The lesson was given by Mrs. George Hensley and the devotion by Mrs. Ward Ozment.

Mrs. J. H. Cummins was hostess to 18 members of the Ruth circle. Mrs. W. L. Cummins and Mrs. L. N. Davenport gave the lesson and Mrs. James Gasaway presented the devotion.

The Lydia division met with Mrs. DeWitt Twente with 16 present. The lesson was presented with Mrs. Adah Reese and Mrs. McGuire gave the devotion.

Mrs. Charles E. Taylor was hostess to the Naomi circle with 15 members being present. Mrs. B. E. Montgomery presented the lesson and the devotion was given by Mrs. Carrie Barter.

First Baptist W.M.U. Has Royal Service Program

The W.M.U. of the First Baptist church met at the church Thursday afternoon for the regular Royal Service program. Mrs. Frances Davis, president, opened the meeting and presided during the business session.

Mrs. Betty Heatherly led in prayer, especially remembering the shut-ins and foreign missions. Mrs. Davis urged that all the members who could come to the church Friday afternoon or work at home on curtains for the mission in Harrisburg.

It was announced again that a missionary book would be taught at the church Monday night to all members of the W.M.U.

Mrs. Florence Slightom led in singing the hymn "Christ for the World" with scriptures John 3:16 and Matt. 28:19-20 being quoted in unison. Mrs. Slightom sang "Jesus Shall Reign."

Mrs. Myrtle Wilson, program chairman for the Alpha Phi circle, conducted an impressive lesson, "Christ for the World," asking each person to take an imaginary visit to the foreign missionary board.

Impersonating lesson characters were the following: Mrs. Pearl Cole who acted as Mrs. Howard Jenkins; Mrs. Virginia Howe, Mrs. Dalleria Green; Mrs. Lola Wickham; Mrs. Charles E. Maddy; Mrs. Myrtle Wilson who impersonated Edna Frances Dawkins; Mrs. Fon H. Scofield Jr.; Ione Gray and Johnnie Johnson; Mrs. Roy Grounds; Mary Elizabeth Fugua and Baker J. Cauthen.

The appeal and closing prayer were made by Mrs. Pearl Cole.

Announce Marriage of Miss Rosalea Reynolds

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reynolds of Stonefort are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Rosalea, to Pvt. Albert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Brown of Carrier Mills RFD 2.

The wedding took place Wednesday, Nov. 9, at the home of Rev. Willie Dutton who officiated at the ceremony.

Attendants were Miss Roberta Carrier of Carrier Mills and Miss Farris of Eldorado.

The bride is employed at the Webster Pharmacy in Harrisburg and the bridegroom is stationed at Fort Story, Va., with the 805th Transportation Co., U. S. Army.

The new Mrs. Brown plans to join him at Fort Story in January.

Darrell Powell, in the Navy since Labor Day and stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training station since then, is at home visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Powell of this city until Nov. 28, when he will leave for Norman, Okla., to enter machinists' school.

Betty Garrett and Janet Leigh are job hunting in this scene from Columbia's "My Sister Eileen" in CinemaScope and Technicolor, to show at the Grand Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Audie Murphy has an anguished moment in this scene from "Hell and Back," Universal-International's war drama in Technicolor, to show at the Orpheum Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Ledford Community Quilters Hold Meeting

The Ledford Community Quilters met Wednesday, Nov. 16, for an all day quilting with a potluck luncheon at noon. Everyone enjoyed the day and much work was accomplished.

Present were Mrs. Ona Wasson, Mrs. Pearl Mullinix, Mrs. Verna Lynch, Mrs. Ada Thompson, Mrs. Betty Molsinger, Mrs. Della Simpson, Mrs. Agnes King and Mrs. Nell Hancock.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 22, and all ladies are invited.

D. H. Hiller, who has been a patient at the Barnes hospital in St. Louis, Mo., for some time, will be returned to his home, 13 East Dayton, tomorrow. His condition is improving, but no visitors are allowed.

Enos Downen of Vincennes, Ind., is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Denny.

Calendar Of Meetings

The Senior unit of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist church will meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Madge Johnson, 215 Ford street.

Rev. Robert L. Smith, pastor of the Free Methodist church in Eldorado, will be in charge of the W. C. T. U. radio program Monday evening at 7:45 over WEBQ.

New Argentine Chief Guarantees Freedom of Press

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An end to censorship with restoration to freedom of the press and public opinion has been guaranteed the people of Argentina by President Pedro E. Aramburu.

Aramburu moved Friday to destroy the propaganda machine created by ousted Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron during his 10 years of "iron rule."

Aramburu ordered the Secretariat for Press and Cultural Activities established by Peron in 1948, abolished. He named Adolfo Lanus, a former editorial writer for the newspaper La Prensa, to supervise the liquidation of the propaganda apparatus which maintained a stranglehold on the nation's press, radio and movies under Peron.

Aramburu, in his decree, declared that continued existence of the secretariat is incompatible with a democratic regime.

"Freedom of the press and access to the sources of information is an essential requisite in the life of the Argentine people as it is in the lives of all free peoples," Aramburu said.

Reject Proposal For Red Leaders To Witness H-Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas E. Murray's proposal that Communist leaders be invited to witness the destructiveness of a U. S. H-bomb met with official disfavor today.

Congressional experts and the other four members of the Atomic Energy Commission disagreed with Murray's contention that such a demonstration might change Russia's belligerent attitude.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss and Murray's AEC colleagues said they formally rejected Murray's proposal "a number of months ago." They said in a strongly worded statement that "Mr. Murray's proposal is contrary to the best judgment of the Atomic Energy Commission. Murray is the only Democrat on the commission."

Murray, in a New York address Thursday night, proposed that thousands of Communist and free world leaders be invited to witness a U. S. nuclear bomb explosion to impress upon them the realization that such a demonstration would serve notice on the world that it must create effective atomic controls or be responsible for wiping out civilization.

Revival Continues At Dorrisville Baptist Church

The Dorrisville Baptist church continues its revival efforts throughout the coming week. There will be morning prayer services Monday through Wednesday of next week beginning at 9:30 a. m. The evening services begin at 7 p. m. Rev. R. C. Fuson, Casey, Ill., father of the pastor, Wm. B. Fuson, is the evangelist. An interesting note also is that the father of the evangelist is also a Baptist minister and only last week was a guest speaker at the convention of Illinois Baptists in Vandalia.

The singing is in charge of Pat Shelton, local song leader.

On Thursday of next week the Union Thanksgiving service will be held at the Dorrisville Baptist church beginning at 8:30 a. m. and lasting for one hour. The public is invited to attend this service also.

Barbecues, Sales Combat Drop In Pork Prices

CHICAGO (AP) — Midwest communities staged giant barbecue parties and price-slashing pork sales to fight the lowest hog prices in 14 years today.

At Kewanee, Ill., more than 10,000 barbecued pork chops were to be served up at 10 cents a head today.

And at Vinton, Iowa, Friday, housewives flocked to meat counters to buy 31,000 pounds of pork at rock-bottom prices.

Both programs were attempts to combat a near-record pork glut which drove hog prices to their lowest level in 14 years in the Corn Belt's 12 major markets.

About 91,000 hogs turned up at the 12 markets Friday, compared to 54,000 last Friday. Hog receipts for the week totaled 587,000, the largest for any week since 1944.

Prices went down 25 to 75 cents, ranging from $11.50 to $13 a hundred pounds. Chicago's peak of $12.50 was the lowest in 14 years, as was the $11.60 average for lesser grades.

Kewanee's answer to the pork surplus started with a parade and then the release of five truckloads of hogs.

They were to be stamped to a 60-foot pit, where workers from the Chicago and Peoria stockyards stood ready to slaughter them.

Town officials planned to convert the porkers into barbecue chops on the spot.

At Vinton, pork sold for half price and housewives from "far and wide" snapped it up as fast as the butchers could wrap it.

The program was financed by $1,500 contributed by swine producers and other farm organizations and was dubbed "Operation Pork Lift."

The price of smoked hams was cut from 59 to 39 cents a pound, pork butts from 49 to 25 cents, pork loins from 49 to 29 cents, picnic hams from 39 and 45 cents to 23 and 27 cents, and lard from 19 to 9 cents.

HTHS Junior Class Presents Hilarious Three-Act Comedy

The sparkling and hilarious three-act comedy, "Time Out for Ginger," was presented last evening in the Bonnell gymnasium by members of the Junior class at the Harrisburg Township high school.

Characters in the play were: Lizzie, the maid, Sandra Gray; Agnes Carol, Alicenell Bean; Howard Carol, James Morgan; the Carols' daughters, Joan, 18, Judy Wells, Jeannie, 16, Sandra Lassetter, and Ginger, 15, Carol Lightfoot; Eddie Davis, an athlete and Joan's boyfriend, David Williams; Tommie Green, Ginger's boyfriend, Jim Maddox; Mr. Wilson, high school principal, John Maszaros; and Ed Hoffman, bank president and Howard Carol's boss, Allen Burbank.

The trouble all began in the play when Mr. Carol, the girls' father, stated in a speech at the high school, that children shouldn't be made to do the things they don't want to do. His daughter, Ginger, took it from there, refusing to attend physical education classes, and going out for the football team. Things were a riot for a while, but everyone was happy at the close of the play.

A party was held for the members of the cast and their friends in the cafeteria of the high school following the production at which time the cast presented the director of the play, C. V. Bennett, with a gift.

No End in Sight In Month-Old Strike At Westinghouse

NEW YORK (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers resumed their "propaganda war" today with still no end in sight to a month-old strike of 44,000 Westinghouse workers.

A seven-day attempt to end the strike by negotiating on the "neutral ground" of New York ended in failure Friday night and no date was set for the resumption of company-union talks. The two sides had agreed to refrain from public comment during the week of talks in New York.

The union went on strike at 30 plants Oct. 17. It has rejected a proposed contract providing graduated increases totaling a minimum of 23 1/2 cents an hour. Present average wages are $2.10 an hour.

Plants affected are located in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and California.

File Charges Against Unions Involved in Shoe Industry Strike

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Charges of unfair labor practices were issued today against the two AFL and CIO unions involved in the largest shoe industry strike in history.

The formal complaint was issued by the National Labor Relations Board here following an investigation of complaints by Brown Shoe Co.

An NLRB spokesman said the firm alleged that the walkout had been called without proper notice under the Taft-Hartley Act.

"An investigation revealed facts that warranted upholding the allegation," the spokesman said. A hearing has been set for Dec. 5.

Shawneetown Trips Vienna, 82-60; Galatia Edges Cave-in-Rock, 53-51

Shawneetown and Galatia share the top of the Greater Egyptian conference standings following a week of competition that saw each team engage in two league games. Friday night Shawneetown won a decisive victory over Vienna, 82-60 and Galatia squeezed out a 53-51 decision over Cave-in-Rock. The winners were playing before home crowds.

In the opening games, played Tuesday evening, Shawneetown won over Ridgway and Galatia defeated Equality.

Other games played last night had Pope County winning from Ridgway and Rosiclare downing Equality.

On the basis of play to date, Shawneetown looks like the "team to beat," having won by a goodly margin on two occasions.

No Trouble for Indians
Last year Shawneetown riddled the loop by going unbeaten, finishing with 14 victories in as many starts. The 1955-56 Indians can't hope to improve on the record, but show promise of equalling it.

Last night Vienna presented a lineup with as much height as Shawneetown, but the Indians didn't experience any particular trouble. And the Indians are playing a much more interesting brand of ball.

During the past season Shawneetown was known for its slow, deliberate type of game. Now the players are running, shooting, rebounding and shooting some more.

Alfred Gunzel was the big gun against Vienna, collecting 24 points. But the real story was the well-balanced attack as eight men cracked the scoring column and four were in double figures.

The Indians jumped out in front, holding a 10-5 lead after three minutes of play and stayed in command throughout.

Galatia Rallies
Galatia staged a fine last quarter rally to gain a 53-51 decision from Cave-in-Rock. As the final frame started Galatia trailed 47-43, but knitted a tight defense in the last quarter to hold the visitors to a mere four points and scored ten to get the win.

With time running out and the score tied at 51-all, Cave tried and missed a fielder. Galatia took the rebound and also missed from the field. Cave gathered in the rebound and in the rush to get in position to shoot, a Cave player charged Manker of Galatia. Manker dropped in two free tosses and the game was safe for Galatia.

Ridgway's Eagles went to Golconda to help Pope County observe its homecoming and the home team won by a score of 68-58.

The game was really closer than the score indicates as Pope County picked up several points in the last minutes as Ridgway fouled in an attempt to get the ball as time ran out.

Ridgway led 9-4 at the quarter and 28-20 at halftime. Then Pope Co. rallied to tie the score at 47-47 after three periods of play and went on to win by a 10-point margin, 68-58.

In the fourth game on the conference schedule, Rosiclare ran wild to score a 106-31 victory over Equality.

Couple Arrives in Chile on Jeep Ride from Alaska

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schneider arrived here today on their 17,000-mile jeep ride from Circle City, Alaska, which began in June, 1954.

The couple plans to continue south to Magellan Strait and then turn back through Argentina on the inter-American ride.

MOVING TIME: Oklahoma's Long Run Creates Economic Problem in Big Seven

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
KANSAS CITY — (NEA) — Bud Wilkinson's reign in the Big Seven is not only a killing thing from a competitive viewpoint, but it is becoming a matter of economics for the rest of the league. It's an old story—this business of Oklahoma so completely dominating the Big Seven. But to most of the coaches in the area it is a fresh — and pretty painful — affair.

Take Chuck Mather at Kansas. The one-time Massillon wonder walks the streets in Lawrence with a wary eye. Every storefront, you see, is nothing more than a front for an alumnus to keep busy behind—when he's not screaming for Mather's scalp.

Move over to Columbia and you hear the grumblings about Don Faurot. His Missouri team gave the Sooners a tough battle before losing, 20, but spirited play is no substitute for a victory and Faurot, perhaps for the first time since coming to Missouri, is finding out that the old back-slapping grads can become tough opponents.

Bill Glassford would be a cinch to find himself between jobs, as they say, except that he has the Nebraska Wolves stopped via a five-year option on his contract. It would cost Nebraska something like $60,000 to get rid of Glassford. They'd love to do it, say so openly — even in newspaper columns. But the nut might be a trifle too tough.

Dallas Ward gave Colorado a winning team over everybody but Oklahoma. But this fall's debacle (56-14) put him on a spot which he might never get off—unless he heads for Northwestern, as rumors have it.

Only Vic DiFrancesca at Iowa State and Bus Mertes at Kansas State, both of whom haven't been around long enough to get in trouble, seem to have an idea about where the next pay check will come from.

Mather doesn't quite seem to

know what hit him in college ball. He stepped up to Kansas last year and most people had the idea he would be another Paul Brown. Around here, they thought he would outshine Terry Brennan, who moved from Chicago Mt. Carmel High to Notre Dame at the same time.

But the beatings Mather has taken—the latest and worst being a 46-0 shellacking by arch-rival Kansas State — have left him slightly bewildered. Chuck was brought to Lawrence to beat Wilkinson. Now he finds he can hardly take care of scrimmage. The IBM machines, bench-side TV sets and general electronic coaching have slowly been discarded. He hasn't had much to replace them with.

Wilkinson tries to tell all within listening distance about his luck in winning all those games. Bud is trying to stand up for less fortunate character builders.

In the meantime, Oklahoma's four-deep squad rolls over everybody and, in the process, has coaches checking moving van costs from, say, Boulder, Colo., to Evanston, Ill.—or maybe Lawrence, Kans., back home to Massillon, O. — where it never was like this.

Murphysboro Beats Herrin, 13-12

Murphysboro, co-champions of the Southwest Egyptian conference, beat Herrin, South Seven grid champ, 13 to 12, last night at Murphysboro.

Herrin scored first on a run by Charley Hamilton but failed to make the extra point. Murphysboro came back on a run by Bud Williams and Mike Taylor made the all-important conversion.

In the third quarter each team scored a touchdown. Herrin's by Hamilton and Murphysboro's by Palmer, but neither team could make its extra point.

U. S. Health Service Releases More Polio Vaccine Shots

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Public Health Service has made 1,773,485 more Salk polio vaccine shots available to states, territories and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Some 32,000 shots were reserved for the foundation. The rest will be allocated to the states and territories for commercial and public use.

The additional shots brought the total to 12,442,437 the amount of vaccine released for children under 15 and expectant mothers. It was the seventh allocation made under the voluntary control system which started July 1.

Carrier Mills Loses 60-51 Tilt At Mt. Vernon

Wildcats Will Be Host to Shawneetown Indians Tonight

Carrier Mills' Wildcats travelled to Mt. Vernon Friday night and lost a close 60-51 cage decision to the Rams of the South Seven conference.

It marked the opening of the season for Mt. Vernon and was the third game on Carrier Mills' schedule. The 'Cats now have a record of one win and two losses. This evening Carrier Mills will be host to the unbeaten Shawneetown Indians.

Mt. Vernon grabbed an early lead last night and made it stand up, although Carrier Mills made a bid for victory in the last quarter, outscoring their hosts 21-16.

Mt. Vernon, paced by Williams and Neal with 16 points each, led 15-7 at the quarter and 29-16 at half time. At the end of three quarters the Rams were in front 44-30. Then came the CM rally, spearheaded by Oliver Rollins' 17 points, but the rally fell short and Mt. Vernon was the winner.

Mt. Vernon also won the preliminary game, 61-52.

Florida Ordered To Cancel Rice Tilt To Play State U.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—The University of Florida has been ordered to cancel a 1956 football game with Rice University, if necessary, in order to schedule a game with Florida State University.

The two universities were given an ultimatum by the all-powerful state Board of Control Friday to play each other next year.

Florida President J. Wayne Reitz, who protested the order, was told the legislature insisted on the match.

"I am not opposed to athletic relations between the two universities," Reitz said. "but I would like to ask if the game is of such importance that we should cancel a game already scheduled or fail to sign contracts with two games already negotiated."

"Yes, it's that important—it's a must," he was told. Board chairman Fred Kent said the game with Rice should be canceled, if necessary, since "it obviously was contracted for after our wishes were known."

Florida's 1956 schedule calls for games with Auburn, Clemson, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Mississippi State, Louisiana State, Vanderbilt and Miami in addition to Rice.

New Orioles Prexy Gives Richards Vote of Confidence

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles' new president gave Paul Richards an unqualified vote of confidence today and promised "to spend whatever is necessary" to make the team a pennant contender.

James Keely Jr., who succeeded Clarence Miles as the head of the Baltimore club Friday, said Richards would continue in his dual capacity as general manager and field leader "because he has the experience and knowhow to match anyone in the business."

Keely then outlined a "new" club policy which sounded amazingly like the "old" one which brought about Miles' resignation. "We must build on a solid foundation of the best players available," he said. "We will keep scouting for young players and we'll spend whatever is necessary to secure them."

The Orioles indicated only two weeks ago that Miles' resignation was brought about because his policy of heavy spending for untried bonus players had failed. The Orioles spent more than $700,000 on the bonus babies under the Miles regime but received very little player value in return.

Chamberlain Hits 42 Points in 81-71 Freshman Win Over Jayhawk Varsity

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain draped his 7-foot frame against the wall of the Kansas University dressing room and complained he felt sick in the first half of a basketball game in which he scored 42 points Friday night.

The incredible Philadelphia Negro, who turned down bids from 100 major colleges to play at Kansas, had led the freshman team to an unprecedented 81-71 victory over the Jayhawk varsity.

He almost single-handedly beat the team favored to win the Big Seven basketball title this year.

"I just couldn't hit," Wilt said. "I felt sort of sick the first half, but better the second." At halftime, 19 points to his credit, the potential All-American fussed. "I can't seem to get going tonight."

Crowd in Ecstasy
But if Wilt thought his performance left something to be desired, a crowd of 14,000—largest in the nation's history for such an event—was in ecstasy. They roared with every movement of the poised, flawless court star.

Wilt responded frequently by jumping high into the air under the basket and thrusting the ball like a shot through the hoop with a swish heard to the beams of the giant fieldhouse.

Coach Forrest C. (Phog) Allen was celebrating Chamberlain's performance and his 70th birthday at the same time.

"He's everything he's cracked up to be and more," Allen gloated. "I said before the game he would make 40 points and I guess I wasn't far off."

Shy of Record

Chamberlain's point total was only two points shy of the school's single-game scoring record set by All-Americans B. H. Born and Clyde Lovellette. Allen said the court wizard has greater potential than either.

Miami Defeats Alabama, 34-12

By United Press
In the only major Friday night college football game fullback Don Bosseler dashed for three touchdowns in pacing Miami to a 34-12 victory over Alabama. It was the Crimson Tide's 12th straight loss.

A crowd of 35,414 in the Orange Bowl watched Miami take a 14-0 lead in the first quarter on a four-yard touchdown burst by Bosseler and a 25-yard scoring run by Whitey Rouvieu with an intercepted pass. Bosseler, a native of Batavia, N. Y., then added two more touchdowns in the second half.

WSIL-TV to Telecast UCLA-Southern Cal Tilt This Afternoon

WSIL-TV announced last night that it will carry a live telecast of a major college football game this afternoon.

It is the contest between UCLA and Southern California, with the telecast to begin at 3:15 p. m. and the game to start at 3:30.

UCLA is figured to be the Pacific Coast's representative against either Michigan or Michigan State in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day.

As every parent knows, learning to say "thank you" is one of the elementary lessons in a child's home education. It is page one in the book of good manners.

It is also one of the first lessons in a person's religious education. And here it is something more than mere good manners.

In every age man's spiritual insight can be measured by his readiness to recognize God as the source of strength and blessings, and by his eagerness to express his gratitude to the Almighty. No one has ever doubted the religious sincerity of our Pilgrim fathers: they gave us Thanksgiving Day.

Today, in a world hungry for spiritual leadership, how much depends on our faith in God... and our ability to turn to Him in gratitude and prayer!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'The Power of Jesus'

GOLDEN TEXT: "Go your way, and tell John what great things ye have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached." — (Luke 7:22)

INTRODUCTION — Jesus possessed the power of God. Jesus is God. When he walked here on earth more than 1900 years ago, he was God walking in a human body. He had power over the material, the physical and the spiritual. "All power in heaven and earth was given to him."

Let it be understood that Jesus never flaunted his power in the face of the public. He never paraded his abilities before the public for self glorification. He had compassion upon all those in need. "He came to seek and save that which was lost." He went about doing good. He came to meet human needs. He met these needs, because he had the power to do so.

I HE HAD POWER OVER DEATH (V. 11-17)

1. DEATH IS UGLY — There is nothing pretty about death. We try to dress it up with flowers and ceremonies, but death is ugly. It causes sorrow, separation and distress.

Death comes to all. No person can escape it. There is no family wealthy enough to elude death. Every living individual must answer that last summons.

Mans fears death. He puts it off as long as possible. Loved ones will ask the doctor to do something to prolong life just as long as possible. People love life and cling to it. They hate death and fear it.

2. JESUS MEETS DEATH — See Jesus walking down the dusty road one day teaching his disciples. They were nearing the city of Nain. Presently he saw a funeral procession approaching. They became quiet.

CONCLUSION — Jesus was meeting every situation in life. He is still in that same business today. Christ as the answer to every situation in life today. If you do not believe it, "come and see." Commit your problem or situation to him and see "he will not help you to solve and meet it."

Here was a sad scene. It is a good example of what death can do. Death is no respecter of persons. Here was a poor widow following along behind a simple wooden casket. She was dressed in black, and her heart was breaking. Death had taken her only son. Does Jesus care when I've said "good-by?"

To the dearest one on earth to me
And my sad heart aches till it nearly breaks
Is it aught to him—does he see?

Oh, yes, he cares; I know he cares,
His heart is touched with my grief;
When the days are weary, the long nights dreary,
I know my Saviour cares.

Yes, Jesus cared this day when he met the widow of Nain. How tenderly he handled the case. "He came nigh" and gently touched the young man and told him to rise. He "gave him to his mother." My! what a wonderful Savior we have.

II HE HAD POWER OVER LIFE (V. 17-23)

The fame of Jesus spread immediately throughout the country. At this very same time John the Baptist was languishing in jail. What had he done to deserve prison? He had preached repentance and confession of sin and faith in Christ as Saviour.

John had been an outdoor man. He had lived in the wilderness. Now he was pining away in a dark prison. Life had become a drudgery for him. He began to have questions in his mind. He sent to Jesus for an answer. Jesus said: "Go your way and tell John what great things you have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf to hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached."

CONCLUSION — Jesus was meeting every situation in life. He is still in that same business today. Christ as the answer to every situation in life today. If you do not believe it, "come and see." Commit your problem or situation to him and see "he will not help you to solve and meet it."
